Course description:

Students are introduced to the format of the test and taught what to expect on the different sections. We have found over many years of teaching that students are very weak on the math sections. Hence, the math tutor will spend a considerable amount of time reviewing math concepts and formulas and explaining how to solve the questions. For English, we have found that many students are very weak in vocabulary. There will be an extensive list to study from and vocab quizzes each class. Parents are encouraged to help their children with the vocab study at home. Students will receive ample amounts of critical reading practice. We also spend a lot of time explaining the analogies section of the test. Finally, while the essay is not scored on the test, the fact that it is submitted to schools means it is very important in the decision-making process of admissions officers. Students will be asked to write at least two essays for practice. This is a rigorous course and students should come committed to completing all the work given.

Course description:

The ACT is useful for students who want an additional test score to augment their college applications. The ACT comprises English, Math, Reading and Science. There is also an essay component known as the Writing in selected administrations of the test.

The Studyworks ACT course covers all these aspects of the ACT. This course is suitable for students who have attended our SAT 1 course, although students who have not taken the SAT will also find the course beneficial.

The ACT course builds upon many of the basic test-taking strategies, techniques and subject material that are covered comprehensively in our SAT 1 course. Besides introducing students to the format of the test and test mechanics, students will also learn about the various aspects of test psychology and approaches.

For the English section, emphasis will be placed on the correct use of English in terms of grammar rules, syntax and punctuation. The Reading section will also see similar emphasis with analysis of the structural organization of the passages and a discussion of the approach to these passages.

Students will also learn about the different types of Science passages and how to read, interpret and understand data presented in tables, graphs and charts, and to apply this understanding and information in answering questions.

There will also be a comprehensive review of the math topics and concepts required of the test.

Studyworks' One-on-One

Individual lessons are available for students who are on a tight schedule, and/or prefer individual attention. Lessons may be scheduled around the student's available times. Lessons are held at our office and are $140 per hour, taught by experienced SAT teachers. In general, you should book your lessons at least one month ahead of your intended start date to avoid disappointment. In addition, we highly recommend that the student take a diagnostic test early so we may provide you with an estimate on how many hours of lessons the student would require.

Studyworks' SAT 1

Course objectives

The objectives of this course are:

- 1) to familiarize students with the format of the test and the scoring system
- 2) to review math concepts, grammar rules, reading strategies
- 3) to teach students to apply strategies for each section
- 4) to give students practice answering questions both in-class and at home
- 5) to increase students' stamina, confidence and test-taking ability
- 6) to raise their scores by over 200 points

Course description

We start with an explanation of test format, scoring and skipping strategies. Next, students are taught how to read for the SAT and how to think for the Critical Reading passages. Significant emphasis is placed on the essay portion, and students will have to write three essays during the course for homework. Unlike other courses that go straight into solving the grammar questions on the Writing section, we do not assume students already have a background in grammar. Students will be taught the grammar rules necessary for this test, and more importantly, how to apply these rules to the questions. In addition, students will be given an extensive vocabulary list and there will be weekly vocabulary quizzes. For Math, we will review in detail the concepts required for the SAT, analyze examples, and solve questions. We will also teach students problem solving strategies as well as techniques for solving SAT Math questions. The class size is between 3 to 16 students.

Free practice tests and review

We encourage all students to take a free diagnostic test before the course starts so that we can accurately assess the student's standard. Please make an appointment with our office if you wish to sit for this free, no obligation test. Please note the test takes 4 hours.

After the course, students may take up to four free practice tests at our center under timed conditions. The tests are optional, but we find that students who conscientiously complete all tests and make the effort to review their mistakes do better than students who do not. All practice tests must be used up within the academic school year.

The four practice tests must be taken on Saturdays 1-5pm. The review for the tests will be conducted from 5-6pm. If you wish to sit for all the practice tests, please ensure you register for our courses at least three months before the actual test.

For the intensive courses, the order that these modules are taught in may be changed. For the verbal, students will not be taught the Improving Paragraphs section. This is an insignificant part of the test as there are only 6 questions on the whole test. Students will also receive less in-class tutorial for both math and verbal. Therefore, it is imperative that students take responsibility for their own learning and commit to working on the questions at home even after the intensive course is over.

Frequently Asked Questions

The History of Studyworks

Studyworks is an American company with over 35 years of experience teaching the SAT. It was founded in 1975 by Miles Fulton Pewitt and its headquarters is in Florida. We have over 30 offices in the USA. For over thirty-five years, we have taught thousands of students. We have a proven track record because we provide better results. We provide better results because we have better teachers who care about their students and who are dedicated to teaching. Our schedules are flexible and most importantly, we have a written 200 points money back guarantee.

Studyworks Singapore was set up in 2001 and, while other test prep centers and tutors have come and gone, our Singapore branch has been consistently helping students do well on their standardized tests. Our students have gone on to the America's greatest universities such as Yale, Stanford, Princeton, Brown, Columbia, UCLA, UC Berkeley, NYU, Carnegie Mellon, MIT and the University of Virginia, to name a few.

Why Choose Studyworks?

Our Singapore office is helmed by teachers with more than ten years of experience teaching the SAT and other test prep courses. We have degrees from American universities and are completely familiar with the American way of testing. We have a physical office with classrooms and we are conveniently located on King's Road where the very first Singapore American School was. Unlike other test prep companies, we do not rotate teachers for different topics. We believe that it makes good pedagogy to have the same teacher track the progress of the student. We take time to teach students the right way to think for each particular test, and we emphasize drilling and conditioning to help the student apply the concepts. Our classes are tough and rigorous but our results speak for themselves. In addition, we give our practice tests AFTER our lessons, not before. It is important that students learn the right approach to the test before committing to doing practice test after practice test. While it is true that practice makes perfect, a student who writes too many tests without the right strategies will merely cement erroneous thinking. At Studyworks Singapore, we know how to teach.

Which Course is Better?

In general, if you are not in a rush, we highly recommend the weekend course. The weekend course gives students time to digest the information they have learnt and to apply the strategies over the week as they work through their homework. It gives the teachers more time to learn the weaknesses of the students and to help them improve. Intensive courses are good for students who want to get a taste of SAT prep. Students who are extremely motivated and self-directed will find the intensive courses useful.

How Much Work Will The Student Get?

Each group class is different. Depending on the group's abilities and motivation, the tutors may assign more or less homework. For intensive courses, students should expect 2-3 hours of homework per day. For weekend classes, students should expect 2-3 hours of homework per week, on top of their school work. Students should continue to work at least an hour a day on their own until their actual test day. Coming to a test prep program is only half the battle won. Students MUST work hard on their own in order to do well on the SAT.

- It is with great pleasure that I write regarding my daughter’s experience with Studyworks and specifically with Thye. My oldest daughter began working with Thye a couple of months before she took the SATs for the first time, and continued working with him in preparation for the SAT 2 in Math. In short, I found these efforts to be well worth the time and money. Thye had been recommended to me by one of my good friends. There is no question that my daughter’s scores on this standardized testing were improved as a direct result of working with Thye. Not only is Thye knowledgeable about math, but also, more importantly in this case, he understands the pedagogy of a subject. He is able to diagnose what a student might not understand, and knows how to explain it “differently” or show a better way to solve a problem. In addition, he knows where to concentrate on the test-taking skills of a particular test. – D.B. Knight.
